

PR arm for brand agency

Independent brand communications agency Troika Imagineering Works has expanded its in-house range of integrated marketing communications services with the establishment of a fully-fledged PR division, headed up by Marilyn de Villiers, who previously held the position of strategic content and planning director at Citigate SA after managing its PR department.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>