

Mail & Guardian teams up with CareerJunction

A new partnership between The Mail & Guardian Online and CareerJunction will see the online news publisher's job section piggy-backing on the online recruitment site's powerful career search tool. According to editor Matthew Buckland, M&G Online pulled in about 210 000 readers last month with the jobs section proving to be one of the most popular destinations.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>