

Axis appoints business development manager for Africa

Network video surveillance company, Axis Communications, has appointed Barry Howell as their new business development manager for Africa. Howell, who will be based in the company's Johannesburg office, will be focusing on developing new business and potential partners for Axis Africa, which means engaging with consultants, architects and engineers.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>