

Altron announces new managing director for Altron Nexus

Altron has confirmed the appointment of Mark Harris as the managing director of Altron Nexus. Harris, who has been the acting managing director for almost six months, will report directly to group chief operations officer Andrew Holden.

Harris was previously employed at Kagiso Media where he led its digital transformation strategy and implementation and has also held senior executive positions at IBM, both locally and abroad. "We are thrilled to have him join us and certain that Mark will add significant value to our business moving forward," Holden said.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>