Philip Morris South Africa gets new head of IT to transform legacy structures

Standard Bank's former information technology senior lead, Mary Mahuma, has been appointed as the new head of information technology at Philip Morris South Africa (PMSA), a leading international tobacco company.

Mahuma joins the company in South Africa to lead the technology and operations as PMSA transforms its core operating model beyond tobacco, underpinned by the organisation's bold ambition to deliver a smoke-free future.

For more, visit: https://www.bizcommunity.com