

Mercer appoints Africa market CEO

Mercer, a global consulting leader in advancing health, wealth and careers, and a wholly owned subsidiary of Marsh & McLennan Companies has appointed Mustafa Faizani, a 10-year Mercer veteran, as market leader and CEO for its IMETA region, which comprises India, the Middle East, Turkey and Africa. He will also serve as CEO of Mercer UAE.

Mustafa Faizani

Mercer has had a presence in Africa since 2013. Faizani will focus on building Mercer's capabilities in this critical growth market to deliver innovative products and solutions, provide high-quality client service and profitably grow the business.

"We have invested significant resources in these countries to deliver advanced solutions that help our clients succeed and make a positive difference in people's lives," said David Anderson, president, Growth Markets Region, Mercer.

"We believe each of these countries are poised for significant growth. Under Mustafa's leadership, our teams will partner with our clients to build sustainable, high-powered, people-focused businesses that succeed by preparing today to meet tomorrow's needs and opportunities."

Faizani is a Mercer veteran. He joined the company in Los Angeles in 2007 to work in the firm's US Health and Benefits and Retirement units. He has served as CFO of Mercer's Growth Markets Region since 2012. Earlier this year he took on the additional responsibility of business operations leader for the region. He started his career as a senior investment analyst at a capital management firm before moving to a California-based bank where he held the role of vice president and consultant for Retirement Plan Services.
