Having received a huge response and submissions from around the world, the shortlisted entries reflect the ground-breaking work being carried out, meeting the demands of the constantly evolving nature of the marketing and media landscapes.

“Every single year we are amazed by the quality of the entries, and this year is no exception. We’ve been absolutely delighted by not only the high standard but also by the range of entries and the judges have had an immensely difficult job in whittling down the nominations to the shortlisted number. We’re looking forward to what will be a fantastic awards night; clinking our glasses and celebrating the strides made by women in the industry and their advocates from around the world.”
- Ade Onilude, founder and CEO of Women in Marketing CIC. ”

The shortlisted entries consist of individuals and teams from a diverse range of organisations including Unilever, HP Inc, Nestle Brasil, Standard Life, Bizcommunity.com, Feel Communications, Campaign magazine and The Future Laboratory.
