

Flow Communications appoints 2 new content specialists

Flow Communications content team has been bolstered by the reappointments of Thrishni Subramoney as a senior communications specialist and Tumelo Buthelezi as a content specialist. Subramoney and Buthelezi are among five “boomerang” employees at Flow – who left only to return to the fold – three of whom have been back for several years.

Subramoney pursued a successful career in broadcast journalism from 2002 before she first joined Flow in 2014 where she stayed for nearly eight years until she was headhunted by another agency last year.

Buthelezi joined Flow as a younger writer and left wanting to broaden his experience, returning after three years to resume his professional journey with Flow.
