

Boshoff is Atterbury's new deputy CEO

Atterbury has named Armond Boshoff as its new deputy CEO. Boshoff formerly worked as the head of corporate finance and treasury at Atterbury Europe, he also worked as dealmaker at Rand Merchant Bank.

Boshoff obtained his BSc in actuarial and financial mathematics from the University of Pretoria, passed associate level examinations of the Institute and Faculty of Actuaries, and recently completed his MBA at University of Oxford - Said Business School.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>