Digital advertising leader Exponential Interactive announces that it is rolling out its new, video-driven business division, VDX.tv, in international markets. VDX.tv allows brands to serve tailored video-driven experiences across screens, including connected TV (CTV) and Over the Top (OTT). This announcement is on the heels of a successful launch in the US in October 2019.

Exponential has a decade long history of creating results-driven advertising solutions for brands globally. VDX, or video-driven experiences, has a proven track record for international advertisers. The VDX.tv product suite incorporates existing solutions, as well as new technologies developed for Advanced TV. By 2021, 82% of all consumer internet traffic will be video, according to Cisco. Brands must adapt their advertising strategies accordingly. VDX.tv makes it simple for brands to create personalised video-driven experiences across channels and screens, from mobile devices and laptops to CTV/OTT.

VDX.tv's COO Scott Kellstedt explains VDX.tv is designed with its customers' evolving needs in mind. "As in the US, brands throughout Canada, Europe and Asia are adopting cross-channel, digital video strategies. According to IAB research, more than eight in 10 advertisers believe a unified multi-platform buying solution (TV + digital video) is important. Adding CTV into the product mix helps close the loop for the growing number of brands looking to execute an all-screens approach."

Kellstedt adds that what really sets VDX.tv apart is its ability to deliver tailored solutions. "Video is of universal value to the market, but brands across categories have different objectives and concerns. Audience behaviour also varies depending on the vertical, the size of the purchase, and the prospect's position in the consideration journey. Our solution allows brands to complement their TV buys and amplify their video messaging, reaching their most relevant consumers."

As of 9 March 2020, VDX.tv solutions are available in APAC regions, Australia, India, New Zealand, Singapore and Hong Kong, as well as EMEA regions Spain, France, Netherlands, United Kingdom, South Africa and Dubai and Canada.
